Hawks Nest (HN 692)

I believe this trail falls under evidence of construction into the regularly maintained category. This is a semi-technical to technical trail and is used by beginning off roaders as a step up in challenge and also as a training trail for those wishing to expand their abilities. This trail can be run from north to south or south to north.

1. Under the Special Resources, this trail should be considered as an indirect, not direct because this is a specific stand alone trail, Access is from Standard Wash & the Dutch Flat Road which has been in existence since the 1880's.
2. In the public uses, under Public use, this trail is more challenging than a standard stock 4X4 can accommodate. Therefore this public use should be changed to read semi – technical to technical
3. In the route redundancy, in the public uses the answer to the question should be changed to NO, because this is a specific stand alone trail.

I Support Map D with the above changes.
